This cutie was created to bring magic into communication. It can also print cute messages.

After numerous pitches within 5 years we've noticed one important thing. It is chemistry between us and a client that guarantees the results of the pitch and success of further cooperation. However, afterwards, in the working process, after all the meetings and the revisions, this feeling is lost.

We've decided to change this situation, to remind us and our clients of who we are and why we work together. We've been searching for a long time for the appropriate format, we wanted our professional communication to be more emotional. And we've got an idea!
